Entry type: Person
Entry ID: AWE0688

Barnes, Gaye

(1959 -)

Born 19590101

Summary

Gaye Barnes, née Robinson, grew up in Angle Park, Adelaide where her parents ran racing stables. Within an eighteen month period, between the ages of 19 and 20, she had three abortions for personal convenience. This had a profound effect on her resulting in ‘a life-altering religious experience’ arising out of continuing depression. She later became determined to help others. In 1990 she and her husband Peter, also a Christian, sold their home to establish the non-denominational Genesis Pregnancy Support service at Marden.

Published resources

Resource
Trove, National Library of Australia, 2009

Archival resources

State Library of South Australia
Interview with Gaye Barnes [sound recording] Interviewer: Barbara Baird

Author Details
Robin Secomb

Created 30 January 2004
Last modified 16 September 2013