Administrative Review Council

(1976 - 2015)

Born 19760101, Australia

Died 20151231

Summary

The Administrative Review Council, a separate advisory body until 2015, when its functions were consolidated into the Attorney-General's Department, is responsible for overseeing and monitoring the Australian system of administrative review. Established to provide advice to the Attorney-General on strategic and operational matters relating to that system, the Council first met on 15 November 1976. It currently comprises five ex officio members and two appointed members.
