Watt, Mildred Mary

(1903 - 1983)

Born	19030101
Died	19831125, Red Hill Australian Capital Territory Australia
Occupation	Author, Scholar, Translator, Writer

Summary

Lady Mildred Watt's obituary in the Canberra Times reports that she obtained a university medal in philosophy at Sydney and was a highly literate writer. She was also a Russian scholar and translator, who at one time translated a book on Australian foreign policy written by a Soviet official into English. Her manuscript was then donated to the Department of Foreign Affairs.

Lady Mildred Mary Watt was the wife of Sir Alan Watt, a diplomat and public servant, and together they had four children.
